Conservation and Management of Australia's Water Resources: 20/20 Vision or Blind Faith

A Tribute to the late Bill Williams

Guest Editors

D. Ryder, A. Boulton & P. De Deckker

Preface: a tribute to Bill Williams and his contribution to limnology
P. De Deckker vii–x

Salt lakes in Australia: present problems and prognosis for the future
B.V. Timms 1–15

Temporal changes between ecological regimes in a range of primary and secondary salinised wetlands
K. Strehlow, J. Davis, L. Sim, J. Chambers, S. Halse, D. Hamilton, P. Horwitz, A. McComb, R. Froend 17–31

Incorporating research results into wetland management: lessons from recovery catchments in saline landscapes
S.A. Halse, T. Massenbauer 33–44

Incorporating natural variability into the assessment of ecological health in Australian dryland rivers
F. Sheldon 45–56

A common parched future? Research and management of Australian arid-zone floodplain wetlands
K.M. Jenkins, A.J. Boulton, D.S. Ryder 57–73

The effects of an environmental flow release on water quality in the hyporheic zone of the Hunter River, Australia
P.J. Hancock, A.J. Boulton 75–85

Freshwater reserves in Australia: directions and challenges for the development of a comprehensive, adequate and representative system of protected areas
J.A. Fitzsimons, H.A. Robertson 87–97

Multidisciplinary approaches to natural resource management
T. Hillman, L. Crase, B. Furze, J. Ananda, D. Maybery 99–108

Perturbation, restoration and seeking ecological sustainability in Australian flowing waters
P.S. Lake 109–120

Managing and rehabilitating ecosystem processes in regional urban streams in Australia
W. Miller, A.J. Boulton 121–133

Multiple interception pathways for resource utilisation and increased ecosystem resilience
J.D. Brookes, K. Aldridge, T. Wallace, L. Linden, G.G. Ganf 135–146

Setting goals and measuring success: linking patterns and processes in stream restoration
D.S. Ryder, W. Miller 147–158

Redressing the limnological imbalance: trends in aquatic ecology, management and conservation in Australia
Darren S. Ryder, Andrew J. Boulton 159–166
